McLEOD EXPLAINS BUILDING PROGRAM

Says Sinking Fund Did as Was Directed—Defends County.
Columbia, S. C., Feb. 6.—Replying to critics of the state sinking fund commission, which was charged by the legislature with the duty of making provisions for the construction of the state office building here Gov. Thomas G. McLeod has issued a statement in which he discussed various phases of the question.
Answering the statement that the sinking fund commission ought to have referred the legal side of the question to the attorney-general, the governor stated that this was done, and that former Attorney General S. M. Wolfe, during whose administration the matter came up, would be able to explain this phase of the subject. It is said that the attorney general then in office turned the matter of securing an abstract of title to a firm of attorneys, who handled business of this kind.
In regard to the matter of a site for the building which was brought up by citizens through the construction of a building on the site, the governor declared that the commission, of which he is a member, was directed to purchase a site conveniently located near the State House.
"In order to secure a location bids were advertised for, with the greatest amount of publicity, and the lot secured was the lowest bid offered. It is conveniently located near the State House," he was provided by the act," said the governor.
The governor declared that had the legislature provided for the construction of a building on the State House grounds, it would have made arrangements for construction at that place mandatory upon the commission.
After securing an architect, the governor continued the bids of all competent architects being the same, the commission went to work to ascertain the needs of all state offices and departments, which were to be housed in the building. It was found that it would take 55,000 square feet of office space, and the plans were drawn accordingly.
The bids were let, after advertisement, and two large contracting firms submitted bids, which were only $3,000 apart. The amount bid was in excess of that which the commission was authorized to expend, yet less space would not have been provided.
"The latter type of building, however, the governor pointed out, would not be for the needs of the state, as the State House grounds are invaluable, and their loss could not be compensated for by the state.
"The commission, as creatures of the state, have merely carried out their instructions, and have reported the same to the legislature and will abide by whatever decision this body sees fit to make of the matter.
"The rents the state is now paying are large and will increase. The same amount of rent under the proposed plan of the sinking fund would discharge the debt and secure to the state a valuable property."

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

More Than $1,400,000 of Tax Money Tied Up in Sinking Fund.
Columbia, Jan. 26.—Nearly a million and a half dollars of public funds—state, county and school—are tied up in sinking funds for several years past, although not, in all cases, have they been written off as losses.
"Public funds are a sacred trust," in Governor McLeod's statement, "and the state treasurer is responsible for the safekeeping of the funds. The volume of the state's business and the amount of funds handled through the various departments and by the state treasurer are very much in excess of the amount prevailing at the time of the enactment of the statute regulating the sinking fund."
The law now vests in the state treasurer and the comptroller general the designation of banks as state depositories, and the state treasurer at his discretion makes deposits in banks designated as state depositories. "In designating the various banks as depositories it is impossible to learn the exact status of the bank, except as appearing from a statement, and therefore, the present system involves more or less risk and is not sufficiently safeguarded as to security. Public funds are a sacred trust, and the state treasurer is responsible for the safekeeping of the funds. The volume of the state's business and the amount of funds handled through the various departments and by the state treasurer are very much in excess of the amount prevailing at the time of the enactment of the statute regulating the sinking fund."

Seven Mistakes of Life :-:

1. The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.
2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.
3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.
4. Attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as we do.
5. Neglecting development and refinement of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading fine literature.
6. Refusing to set aside trivial preferences, in order that important things may be accomplished.
7. The failure to establish the habit of saving money.

FAIRFIELD GOES UP.

Winnboro's New Inn Nearing Completion—To Be Colonial.
Winnboro, Feb. 6.—Work is being rapidly pushed on the Fairfield, Winnboro's new inn and tourist hotel, which will be opened with a big dinner Monday evening, February 16. One hundred and fifty places have already been reserved for the opening night. The inn is the old Douglas homestead, greatly enlarged and remodeled. The house is to be painted white with green trim, and as it is of plaster will be of true colonial style. It will be furnished throughout with furniture of the colonial period. Thousands of dollars have been spent in beautifying the grounds. A circular walk and drive have been built in front. A $4,000 garage is in course of construction. E. F. Wortham of Boston, who has successfully managed the famous Somerset hotel in golf course, will be manager. Plans are being made for a nine-hole golf course. The chef had 20 years experience on a dining car and can cook. It is said, to a question, that the Fairfield expects to specialize on old-fashioned southern cooking, and will cater to both tourists and transients.

LARGE CROWDS VISIT SAND CAVE

Thousands Arrive From Five States. Railroad Estimates 20,000 See Rescue Work—Collier's Father Buys Trade.
Cave City, Ky., Feb. 6.—Glorious holiday crowd came to Cave City today and made the six-mile trip to Sand Cave, where Floyd Collins passed the bleak day of his entombment here last week.

Long before noon a continuous stream of automobiles wound over the rough roads to the rescue camp. At 11 a. m. there were two long lines of cars waiting to enter the cave. For three miles along the way the motoring, two abreast, almost jammed the road.
Farm yards and fields were turned into temporary parking places. The field between the road and the scene of operations was crowded with cars bearing license tags from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia and Tennessee, among other states.

Visitors Come With Dawn.

During the morning the crowd standing outside the hatched way enclosure, which the tunnel workers numbered 5,000 and constantly was changing.
The first hatched arrived about 10 o'clock, and the numbers grew with the hours.
A spontaneous religious service was held. The crowd moved with the procession to the entrance and prayed for Collins. They sang and the song drifted down the valley, echoing off the narrow ravine where the shaft and mouth of the cave are located.

Additional lunchhounds made their appearance; lunch baskets were brought from the cars and men, women and children sat about in family groups.

It was a family crowd, by whom the imprisoned man largely had been forgotten and whose interest was in the spectacle brought about by rescue efforts.
Lee Collins, father of the cavern victim, moved among the crowd, introduced himself to anyone who appeared to be a sympathetic listener. Yesterday his casual conversation always ended with the presentation to the victim of a circular advertising Crystal Cave, which his son discovered several years ago. Today the crowd of circulars had been exhausted.

His hope for his son's rescue alive still was strong.
The Louisville and Nashville railroad added four coaches to the morning train, from Louisville and said about 2,500 extra tickets had been sold. The railroad company's estimate of the total number of visitors today was 20,000, most of whom came by automobile.

By His Works Ye Shall Know Him

By Joseph P. Watkins
Social equality between the races is fundamentally impossible. There is a physical difference between the white man and the black man that makes the one repugnant to the other. The white man will not permit social equality between himself and any other race. Negroes who aspire to social equality are but sowing seed in a great wind. There will not be any harvest at all for them. The white man will maintain his supremacy in this country and upon the earth. An admixture of blood can but result in a hybrid race. There will never be an amalgamation between the black and the white. There is a dividing line across which the negro must not step.
Negroes who aspire to social equality must consider the case of George Carver. Carver is a negro. He is also a scientist. He has done things in a laboratory that no other man before him has ever accomplished. He is an agricultural chemist at Tuskegee, where his life is training negro chemists of the world. He holds a fellowship in the Royal Chemical Society of London. Professor Carver is not hobnobbing his head about social equality, but he is invited to lecture before white audiences because the white man is willing to recognize genius of any race. George Carver the scientist and educator is a great man. A George Carver using his talents in a manner that would be enough to make the angels weep.

WOMAN TRIES TO DIE OUT OF PRISON

Lillian Catton Found to Have Made Headway in Effort to Escape.
Salsbury, N. C., Feb. 6.—After Lillian Catton, white woman arrested at Spencer about ten days ago on a warrant sworn out by Detective Ryan of the Burns Detective Agency, and charging illegal transaction in connection with a $625 check in New York had been taken away from her it was found that she had nearly escaped from the Rowan Jail where she was detained "for a time." She had dug a hole in the wall on the inside of her cell, but had taken care not to cut through far enough to make her work visible on the outside. She was probably waiting until she was sure of a gap sufficiently large to permit crawling through before removing the outside bricks. She is a rather stoutly built woman. It was found that the woman had used a spoon, one of a silver set belonging to Mrs. John Smith, wife of the jailer, in her work on the cell wall. It is believed this spoon was sent to the woman, along with some of her meals, and she at once seized it as an instrument with which to attempt a way to escape. She had practically done the work in pouring the mortar from brick with the spoon and catching this on a piece of paper dumped it in the toilet. Then removing the brick as they were loosened she wrapped these up in newspapers, having secured the papers ostensibly for the purpose of reading, and checked them back in a corner out of view from the cell door.

WOMAN TRIES TO DIE OUT OF PRISON

The woman was almost within reach of liberty so far as the jail was concerned but had she been successful in getting through the wall she would have been in the high picket fence enclosure that surrounds the prison section of the jail. However, she probably would have been able to make her way to have scaled this, but there was another modification to be reckoned with, that being a pair of German police dogs kept in the rear yard, within the iron enclosure.

Collins and all were buildings recently constructed having taken the place of a store building and houses burned a few months since.

The fire was caused by a gas operated by Mr. W. M. McDonald, who was also owner at the time of the previous conflagration.

The firemen could make little headway at this fire on account of low water pressure, the stream being so light that the firemen could scarcely get close enough to throw the water on the blaze.

The firemen deserve credit for standing the punishment they received at this fire. These families with the water situation, say that a stand-pipe will have to be erected in East Chester before this part of the city will ever secure adequate water pressure.

ART PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

An exhibition of pictures to be held at the new high school building from March 1-15 for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of pictures for the walls of the public schools.

This exhibition of pictures is one of more than ordinary interest. It consists of carbon reproductions, photographs and color prints, loaned by the Elson Art Publishers Company, Inc., Belmont, Mass. The collection is a large one and contains the very best reproductions of the masterpieces of art of many different countries and periods from the greatest public and private galleries.

The collection comprises about two hundred subjects representing paintings of many schools of art and includes reproductions of the great classical, modern and important works from nature. Few collections have ever been brought together which so completely cover the history of art.

A catalog will be on sale at the exhibition hall.

No city or town should be indifferent to the culture and refinement of its people. It is part of the school work to inculcate these qualities in the children.

Through whatever means it has at its disposal. The wholesome and refining influence of pictures of the right sort on the school walls is generally recognized as one of the most valuable means of securing this end.

The entire sparsed no expense in the purchase of pictures for the schools, as well as the teachers and pupils, are helped educationally by it.

Under the attendance, the greater number of pictures that can be secured for the schools, as all funds raised by the public, less expenses, will be used to purchase pictures.

We hope you will not fail to visit the exhibition, and believe you will be fully repaid for the pleasure and profit you derive from it besides helping on the work.

Balser, and was partially covered by insurance.

The robbers gained access to the rear window in the dry goods department. This is the second time in recent years that the above mentioned stores have been entered by robbers.

Rev. Jesse Pittman, of Spartanburg, has accepted a call recently extended him by the Harmony Baptist church. Mr. Pittman and family expect to move into the parsonage near the church on Wednesday, the former preaching to the Harmony congregation for the first time next Sunday.

1350 HOURS TO DON HIS MAKEUP FOR HUNCHBACK

Lon Chaney Devotes Recent Time to His Characterizations During Filming

Thirteen hundred and fifty hours devoted to donning his make-up before the first performance, is the record of Lon Chaney, star of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which opens a limited engagement at the "Desandford Theatre in Monday. The production was twelve solid months in the making and each day it took Chaney four and one-half hours to submerge his personality in that of "Quasimodo," the hunchback bell-ringer of Notre Dame. It was one of the most complicated pieces of make-up ever attempted.

The fact that Victor Hugo was an artist (a fact not generally known) and that he had illustrated his own famous book, was of inestimable assistance to both the star and the other players, in visualizing the characters.

In a glowing description of the stupendous photo-drama Alan Diney, distinguished critic of the New York American, said: "The seven audacious adjectives to tell of the excellence of Chaney's work, ending up by saying: 'This bit of work is art of the purest and rarest, it cannot die, it will live forever.'"

The entire sparsed no expense in the purchase of pictures for the schools, as well as the teachers and pupils, are helped educationally by it.

Under the attendance, the greater number of pictures that can be secured for the schools, as all funds raised by the public, less expenses, will be used to purchase pictures.

ITEMS FROM EDMOOR

Edmoor, Feb. 6.—The Ladies' Aid society met last Tuesday with the president, Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, with 13 ladies answering roll call. The subject for the afternoon was "India." The Journal of Missions this month is called "The Indian Special." It is full of our mission work in India. The program was in charge of Mrs. Lammus and was beautifully carried out. Nearly all the ladies took part, which was very satisfactory.

After the regular business session, a letter was read from Miss Macie Stevenson, who is in an sanatorium in Asheville. The society adjourned to meet with Mrs. H. A. Willis in March. Our secretary was sick and in her absence Mrs. J. L. McDonald acted as secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Culp, Mrs. F. M. Simpson, Miss Lizzie Mill, Mrs. J. L. McDonald and children, Mrs. McCollins and Mrs. R. H. Killian dined with Mrs. and Mrs. A. G. Westbrook last Saturday. A beautiful dinner was served, consisting of salad, ham, cranberries, macaroni, peas, pickles, rice dressing and gravy, pound cake, fruit cake and white and whipped cream and coffee. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook have been married 26 years. They celebrated this anniversary the 5th. May they have many returns of the day.

The only thing I hear said about farming these days are looking up the price lists of guano.

We are glad to say our pastor, Dr. R. L. Lummas, preached his first sermon last Sabbath when he was sick. The congregation was glad, indeed, to hear him speak. He is looking well.

Weak Nervous

"I was weak and nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. J. B. Miller, of 406 N. 21st St., East St. Louis, Ill. "I couldn't sleep nights, I was so restless, I felt tired and not in condition to do much of anything. I had such pains in my stomach that I was afraid I would get down in bed. My mother came to see me and suggested that I use CARDUI."

"I took CARDUI and I am feeling fine. Nervousness, restlessness, sleeplessness—these symptoms so often are the result of a weak, run-down condition, and may be developed more seriously if not treated in time. Use CARDUI. Sold everywhere."
